Not eligible to declare?

Do NOT submit a request to declare unless you are currently eligible or have an email from Psychology Advising showing you have permission to declare through an appeal.

Please note the faculty reviewing appeals generally require that a student has made multiple attempts to meet the eligibility criteria before granting an appeal.

Appealing is also not an option if you have not completed all the requirements to declare yet. You can email questions about the appeal process to psyadv@ucsc.edu.

If you are required to declare this quarter and are not eligible, contact your College to determine what they need from you to avoid an enrollment hold. If they need anything from Psychology Advising to lift a hold, you can email any requests to psyadv@ucsc.edu and CC your College.
